Fundamentals of GIS 2nd Edition Update with Integrated Lab Manual Michael N. DeMers, 2003 The Updated Second Edition of Fundamentals of Geographic Information Systems includes thirteen laboratory exercises integrated into the text itself The labs are linked to particular chapter where the concepts described in the reading can be practiced immediately in a laboratory setting The second edition of this well received text on principles of geographic information systems GIS continues the author's style of straight talk in its presentation The writing is accessible and easy to follow Unlike most other texts this book covers GIS design and modeling reflecting the belief that modeling and analysis are at the heart of GIS This enables students to understand how to use a GIS and what it does Guide to Geography Programs in the Americas, 2007 Maps and Colours, 2024-02-06 Colours make the map they affect the map's materiality content and handling With a wide range of approaches 14 case studies from various disciplines deal with the colouring of maps from different geographical regions and periods Connected by their focus on the hand colouring of the examined maps the authors demonstrate the potential of the study of colour to enhance our understanding of the material nature and production of maps and the historical social geographical and political context in which they were made Contributors are Diana Lange Benjamin van der Linde J r n Seemann Tomasz Panecki Chet Van Duzer Marian Coman Anne Christine Lien Juliette Dumasy Rabineau Nadja Danilenko Sang hoon Jang Anna Boroffka Stephanie Zehnle Haida Liang Sotiria Kogou Luke Butler Elke Pappelitzky Richard Pegg Lucia Pereira Pardo Neil Johnston Rose Mitchell and Annaleigh Margey Guide to Programs of Geography in the United States and Canada, 2002 Cartography and Geographic Information Systems, 1991 Guide to Geography Programs in North America, 2005 GeoWorld, 2005 Cartographic Perspectives, 1997 InfoWorld, 1996-10-14 InfoWorld is targeted to Senior IT professionals Content is segmented into Channels and Topic Centers InfoWorld also celebrates people companies and projects Geographical Information Systems in Hydrology Vijay Singh, M. Fiorentino, 1996-09-30 The last few years have witnessed an enormous interest in application of GIS in hydrology and water resources This is partly evidenced by organization of several national and international symposia or conferences under the sponsorship of various professional organizations This increased interest is in a large measure in response to growing public sensitivity to environmental quality and management The GIS technology has the ability to capture store manipulate analyze and visualize the diverse sets of geo-referenced data On the other hand hydrology is inherently spatial and distributed hydrologic models have large data requirements The integration of hydrology and GIS is therefore quite natural The integration involves three major components 1 spatial data construction 2 integration of spatial model layers and 3 GIS and model interface GIS can assist in design calibration modification and comparison of models This integration is spreading worldwide and is expected to accelerate in the foreseeable future Substantial opportunities exist in integration of GIS and hydrology We believe there are enough challenges in use of GIS for conceptualizing and modeling complex hydrologic processes and for globalization of hydrology The motivation for this book grew out of the desire to provide under one cover a range of applications of GIS technology in hydrology It is hoped that the book will stimulate others to write more comprehensive texts on this subject of growing importance The Art and the Science of Writing Geoscience Reports Brian Grant,1999 Geoscience Reporting Guidelines Brian Grant,2003 Applied Geography Michael Pacione,2002-03-11

Archaeologists and the public at large have long been fascinated by monumental architecture built by past societies Whether considering the earthworks in the Ohio Valley or the grandest pyramids in Egypt and Mexico people have been curious as to how pre modern societies with limited technology were capable of constructing monuments of such outstanding scale and quality Architectural energetics is a methodology within archaeology that generates estimates of the amount of labor and time allocated to construct these past monuments This methodology allows for detailed analyses of architecture and especially the analysis of the social power underlying such projects Architectural Energetics in Archaeology assembles an international array of scholars who have analyzed architecture from archaeological and historic societies using architectural energetics It is the first such volume of its kind In addition to applying architectural energetics to a global range of architectural works it outlines in detail the estimates of costs that can be used in future architectural analyses This volume will serve archaeology and classics researchers and lecturers teaching undergraduate and graduate courses related to social power and architecture It also will interest architects examining past construction and engineering projects Miscellaneous Paper - Ontario Geological Survey Ontario Geological Survey,Ontario.
