

Financial Reporting and Analysis

Financial reporting and analysis

Financial reporting is the communication of financial information used in making economic decisions, to public and private users of financial reports. The ICAEW's Financial Reporting Committee is responsible for setting the rules of corporate governance. However, the responsibility for overseeing non-financial reporting lies with the Audit and Assurance Committee.

Financial Reporting should be considered as the report on the preparation of accounting information and the processes by which it is prepared. Other financial reports also include management reports, budget and financial performance statements, financial statements, the like. Similarly, ICAEW's Financial Reporting Committee is responsible for the preparation, presentation and interpretation of corporate governance and non-financial reporting information for the organization, related entities and stakeholders with an interest in corporate governance.

Please click on the sections for an overview of the requirements and rules necessary for your non-financial and financial reporting obligations.

Financial Reporting

ICAEW's Financial Reporting Committee (FRC) has published rules and guidance:

- Disclosure and analysis of management accounting information and financial accounting information
- Disclosure and analysis of the significance of accounting information, guidance for the disclosure of financial reporting and related governance, and disclosure of the regulatory framework. The FRC's publications and communications will include:
- Policy that will implement the FRC's approach and guidance of financial performance for strategic and operational purposes in accordance with legal and regulatory requirements.
- Reporting and analysis concepts, disclosure requirements and rules for the disclosure of financial performance measures and related consequences.
- Disclosure and analysis of related party financial reporting and regulatory requirements.
- Procedural aspects and processes relating to financial reporting for the Board and senior officers and employees.

Disruption in Financial Reporting Krish Bhaskar,John Flower,2021-01-21 Since the global financial crisis of 2007 8 new laws and regulations have been introduced with the aim of improving the transparency in financial reporting Despite the dramatically increased flow of information to shareholders and the public this information flow has not always been meaningful or useful Often it seems that it is not possible to see the wood for the trees Financial scalds continue as Wirecard NMC Health Patisserie Valerie going back to Carillion and many more demonstrate Financial and corporate reporting have never been so fraught with difficulties as companies fail to give guidance about the future in an increasingly uncertain world aided and abetted by the COVID 19 pandemic This concise book argues that the changes have simply masked an increase in the use of corporate PR impression management bullet points glossy images and other simulacra which allow poor performance to be masked by misleading information presented in glib boilerplate texts images and tables The tone of the narrative sections in annual reports is often misleading Drawing on extensive research and interviews with insiders and experts this book charts what has gone wrong with financial reporting and offers a range of solutions to improve information to both investors and the public This provides a framework for a new era of forward looking corporate reporting and guidance based on often conflicting multiple corporate goals The book also examines and contrasts the latest thinking by the regularity authorities Providing a compelling exploration of the industry s failings and present difficulties and the impact of future disruption this timely thought provoking book will be of great interest to students researchers and professionals as well as policy makers in accounting financial reporting corporate reporting financial statement analysis and governance
