Globalization and Families Bahira Trask, 2009-12-01 As our world becomes increasingly interconnected through economic integration technology communication and political transformation the sphere of the family is a fundamental arena where globalizing processes become realized For most individuals family in whatever configuration still remains the primary arrangement that meets certain social emotional and economic needs It is within families that decisions about work care movement and identity are negotiated contested and resolved Globalization has profound implications for how families assess the choices and challenges that accompany this process Families are integrated into the global economy through formal and informal work through production and consumption and through their relationship with nation states Moreover ever growing communication and information technologies allow families and individuals to have access to others in an unprecedented manner These relationships are accompanied by new conceptualizations of appropriate lifestyles identities and ideologies even among those who may never be able to access them Despite a general acknowledgement of the complexities and social significance inherent in globalization most analyses remain top down focused on the global economy corporate strategies and political streams This limited perspective on globalization has had profound implications for understanding social life The impact of globalization on gender ideologies work family relationships conceptualizations of children youth and the elderly have been virtually absent in mainstream approaches creating false impressions that dichotomize globalization as a separate process from the social order Moreover most approaches to globalization and social phenomena emphasize the Western experience These inaccurate assumptions have profound implications for families and for the globalization process itself In order to create and implement programs and policies that can harness globalization for the good of mankind and that could reverse some of the deleterious effects that have affected the world's most vulnerable populations we need to make the interplay between globalization and families a primary focus

Nye,2003 We need to think harder about the norms and procedures for the governance of globalization writes Joseph Nye in setting out the goals of this report Focusing on the roles of the World Trade Organization International Monetary Fund and World Bank Professor Nye poses six questions to contributors Jessica Einhorn B la K d r Hisashi Owada Luis Rubio and Soogil Young 1 Protesters assert that institutions like the WTO the World Bank and the IMF are effectively accountable to no one Is there any validity to their claims 2 Does it make any sense to speak of democracy at the global level in the absence of a strong sense of political community 3 Within the European Union it is often suggested that a stronger European Parliament will reduce the sense of a democratic deficit as the regional community evolves Does the analogy make sense on a global scale 4 What roles can and should NGOs play in accountability at the global level 5 Representativeness is a critical dimension of legitimacy How should we think about the representativeness of the governance of the Fund Bank and WTO What changes should be made 6 Defenders of international institutions could experiment to improve accountability

What experiments in processes and procedures would you recommend Nye suggests There is no single answer But the need to develop answers is absolutely essential We need changes in processes that allow politics more play and that take advantage of the multiple forms of accountability that exist in modern democracies
