Multi Cropping Practices Recent Trends In Double Cropping:

Multi-Cropping Practices United States Department of Agriculture,2014-12-09 Over the last decade growing demand for agricultural commodities for both food and fuel has increased the incentives for farm operators to increase production One way to expand production and potentially increase the return to farming is by intensifying the use of existing cropland One form of intensification is double cropping the harvest of two crops from the same field in a given year From 1999 to 2012 double cropping occurred on about 2 percent of total cropland in most years Soybeans were on average the most common crop found on double cropped acres over this time period and in 2012 winter wheat most commonly preceded these soybean plantings However regional and temporal variation is apparent in all double cropping trends likely indicating farmers responsive ness to local conditions and changing market incentives Although double cropping has the potential to limit the environmental consequences associated with cropland expansion such as increased soil erosion and loss of wildlife habitat or carbon sinks as U S farmers increase production to meet growing global demand it also may introduce negative environmental consequences of its own The trends and analysis provided in this report are intended to support future discussion on the factors influencing its use and help inform discussions about the merits of expanding its use

Multi-cropping Practices Allison Borchers,2014 Trends in Double Cropping Roger W. Hexem,Robert F. Boxley,1986 Extract U S farmers increased double cropped acreage from 5.8 to 12.4 million acres during 1974-82 from 1.9 percent of all acres harvested in 1974 to nearly 4 percent in 1982 Double cropping was expanding because of rising commodity prices and producers adoption of advanced technologies in plant varieties and farming practices Appalachia the Delta States and the Southeast showed the sharpest growth in double cropping partly because growing seasons there are relatively long Double cropping declined after 1982 because of weak soybean prices Government sponsored idling of some wheat acreage that would otherwise have been double cropped and unfavorable weather in several important double cropping areas
