5 Stages of New Product Development Process

01

Idea Generation

Local subsidiaries are likely to have some ideas from their respective markets.

02

Preliminary Screening

The most immediate evaluation of an idea is whether it is compatible with the company objectives.

03

Concept Research

Focus Groups offer the development team a chance to hear spontaneous reactions to a new concept.

04

Concept Testing

A more formal approach to selecting product attributes is using techniques such as trade-off analysis.

05

Test Marketing

Once the sales forecast looks promising, the new product is usually placed in production and test-marketed.
