Program Overview

The Constitution is all around us. It affects each of us, every day. We are fortunate it is the most important document in our daily lives, yet most people cannot remember when it says or the difference between the Constitution and the Declaration of Independence. Americans are known for standing up for their rights and ensuring their voices are heard, but where does this almost instinctual respect of the American people come from? It is almost a part of our general make-up as Americans to debate, but where does this respect for rights that is general? It can be found in the American people and in our founding documents, the Constitution.

In this video series, we are going to travel across the United States and find out more about what our founding fathers were thinking when they wrote the Constitution, how everyday Americans help define the words that were written on that parchment so long ago, and how our system works to interpret and amend this supreme law of our land. The writing of the Constitution began as a momentous event, but the conversation continues to get richer as we learn what words is added to the mix.

Key Concepts for Episode 1

- Federalism: the system of shared power between national and state governments.
- States' rights: the doctrine that the states have sovereign powers equal to the national government.
- Nationalism: the supremacy of the national government over the states.

Reflections

This debate over federalism, the system of shared power between national and state governments, continued throughout American history. Some argued in favor of states' rights, noting that the states had sovereign powers equal to the federal government. Others defended nationalism, the supremacy of the federal government over the states.
