Industry Week, 1921    The Theosophical Path Katherine Augusta Westcott Tingley, 1919    Russian Views of Japan, 1792-1913 David N. Wells, 2004 Before Japan was opened up in the 1850s contact with Russia as well as other western maritime nations was extremely limited. Yet from the early eighteenth century onwards as a result of their expanding commercial interests in East Asia and the North Pacific Russians had begun to encounter Japanese and were increasingly eager to establish diplomatic and trading relations with Japan. This book presents rare narratives written by Russians including official envoys, scholars and later tourists who visited Japan between 1792 and 1913. The introduction and notes set these narratives in the context of the history of Russo-Japanese relations and the genre of European travel writing showing how the Russian writers combined ethnographic interests with the assertion of Russian and European values simultaneously inscribing power relations and negotiating cultural difference.

from tiny plots in crowded urban contexts to ever present seismic threats These challenges encourage their architects to explore alternating ideas of stability and ephemerality in various ways resulting in spaces that are as fascinating as they are idiosyncratic Their formal innovation and attention to materials technology and measures to coax in light and air while maintaining domestic privacy make them cutting edge residences that suggest new ways of being at home Contemporary Japanese architecture has emerged as a substantial force on the international scene ever since Kenzo Tange won the Pritzker Prize in 1987 This overview of 50 recent houses powerfully demonstrates Japan's enduring commitment to design innovation
