Maano Ramutsindela

Geography Limpopo Pmemorandum 2013 W:

Political Ecology of African Peace Parks Maano Ramutsindela, 2025-11-06 Peace parks are imagined landscapes and seascapes created through narratives and science This book uses a political ecology framework to explore the colonial and uneven geography of peace parks in post independence Africa It illuminates the regional milieus impacting these parks and the consequent socioecological and political dynamics This book curates a space for multiple voices and knowledges of peace parks and highlights the limits to truth claims It presents peace parks as a milieu that enables the assemblage of underexamined concepts in political ecology The book advances four arguments The first is that critical scholarship on the peace parks initiative in Africa and elsewhere has been crowded out by a dominant and well sponsored narrative of these parks Second the ideology of peace parks capitalises on societal aspirations and challenges to wage the war of the mind Third peace parks are a geographical expression of coloniality The fourth argument is that the regional dynamics account for the uneven geography of peace parks in Africa These dynamics reveal the symbiotic relations between politics and ecology The founding of peace parks animates resource politics but also depoliticises the resource question Situated in the ongoing debates on protecting the planet in an unequal world and the pathways for a just society this book will be of interest to researchers of African studies political ecology human geography sociology environmental studies and political science

Conservation, Land Conflicts and Sustainable Tourism in Southern Africa Regis Musavengane, Llewellyn Leonard, 2022-05-11 This book examines the nexus between conservation land conflicts and sustainable tourism approaches in Southern Africa with a focus on equity access restitution and redistribution While Southern Africa is home to important biodiversity pristine woodlands and grasslands and is a habitat for important wildlife species it is also a land of contestations over its natural resources with a complex historical legacy and a wide variety of competing and conflicting issues surrounding race cultural and traditional practices and neoliberalism Drawing on insights from conservation environmental and tourism experts this volume presents the nexus between land conflicts and conservation in the region The chapters reveal the hegemony of humans on land and associated resources including wildlife and minerals By using social science approaches the book unites environmental scientific social and political issues as it is imperative we understand the holistic nature of land conflicts in nature based tourism Discussing the management theories and approaches to community based tourism in communities where there are or were land conflicts is critical to understanding the current state and future of tourism in African rural spaces This volume determines the extent to which land reform impacts community based tourism in Africa to develop resilient destination strategies and shares solutions to existing land conflicts to promote conservation and nature based tourism The book will be of great interest to students academics development experts and policymakers in the field of conservation tourism geography sociology development studies land use and environmental management and African studies
