It has tried various persons including former Liberian President Charles Ghankay Taylor for serious violations of international humanitarian law committed during the latter half of the Sierra Leonean armed conflict. It completed its work in December 2013. A new Residual Special Court for Sierra Leone based in Freetown and with offices in The Hague has been created to carry out its essential residual functions. The law reports are intended for national and international judges, lawyers, academics, students and other researchers as well as transitional justice practitioners in courts, tribunals and truth commissions and anyone seeking an accurate record of the trials conducted by the Special Court for Sierra Leone.
