READING AND WRITING IN ONE COMMUNITY

DAVID BARTON and MARY HAMILTON

Local Literacies Mary Hamilton

Ellen Vea Rosnes

Local Literacies Mary Hamilton:

Local Literacies David Barton, Mary Hamilton, 2012 David Barton and Mary Hamilton offer a unique study of everyday reading and writing. By concentrating on a selection of people in a particular community they analyse how literacy is used in people's everyday lives. Literacy and the Politics of Representation Mary Hamilton, 2012 Literacy is a key indicator for comparing individuals and nations in contemporary society. It is central to public debates about the nature of the public sphere, economic markets, citizenship and self governance. Literacy and the Politics of Representation aims to uncover the constructed nature of public understandings of literacy by examining detailed examples of how literacy is represented in a range of public contexts. It looks at the ways in which knowledge about literacy is created and distributed, the location and relative power of the knowledge makers and examines the different semiotic resources used in such representations: images and metaphors, numerical and statistical models and textual narratives and how they are related to one another. The book focuses on the UK from 1970 to the present but includes a range of international comparisons and examples. In addition, exemplar chapters offer a model of analysis that can be used to deconstruct the representations of social policy issues. This book is vital reading for postgraduate students in the areas of education studies, literacy discourse analysis and multimodality.

The Norwegian Mission's Literacy Work in Colonial and Independent Madagascar Ellen Vea Rosnes, 2018-12-07

Offering an original historical perspective on literacy work in Africa, this book examines the role of the Norwegian Lutheran mission in Madagascar and sheds light on the motivations that drove colonizing powers' literacy work. Focusing on both colonial and independent Madagascar, Rosnes examines how literacy practices were facilitated through mission schools and the impact on the reading and writing skills of Malagasy children and youth. Analysing how literacy work influenced identity formation and power relations in the Malagasy society, the author offers new insights into the field of language and education in Africa.

Literacy in Practice Patrick Thomas, Pamela Takayoshi, 2015-11-19 The rise of New Literacy Studies and the shift from studying reading and writing as a technical process to examining situated literacies what people do with literacy in particular social situations has focused attention toward understanding the connections between reading and writing practices and the broader social goals and cultural practices these literacy practices help to shape. This collection brings together situated research studies of literacy across a range of specific contexts covering everyday educational and workplace domains. Its contribution is to provide through an empirical framework a larger cumulative understanding of literacy across diverse contexts.

Transnational Writing Program Administration David S. Martins, 2015-03-15 While local conditions remain at the forefront of writing program administration, transnational activities are slowly and thoroughly shifting the questions we ask about writing curricula, the space and place in which writing happens and the cultural and linguistic issues at the heart of the relationships forged in literacy work. Transnational Writing Program Administration challenges taken for granted assumptions regarding program identity, curriculum and pedagogical effectiveness, logistics and quality assurance faculty and student demographics innovative partnerships and research and the infrastructure needed to support writing instruction in higher education Well known scholars and new voices in the field extend the theoretical underpinnings of writing program administration to consider programs activities and institutions involving students and faculty from two or more countries working together and highlight the situated practices of such efforts The collection brings translingual graduate students at the forefront of writing studies together with established administrators teachers and researchers and intends to enrich the efforts of WPAs by examining the practices and theories that impact our ability to conceive of writing program administration as transnational This collection will enable writing program administrators to take the emerging locations of writing instruction seriously to address the role of language difference in writing and to engage critically with the key notions and approaches to writing program administration that reveal its transnationality
